Sexy Lingerie and Your Body Type

You need to feel comfortable with your own body before you can feel totally at ease with yourself. Emphasizing the correct body parts, which is not necessarily showing more skin, will make you feel appealing and desirable. Always accentuate your positive features and play down or understate the negative. If your body shape is straight - with bust, waist and hips almost the same, choose a style that will drape over your figure and stay away from tight fitting lingerie. Comfort is just as important as the way you look. Nobody wants to feel like they are being restricted in the wrong places.

What Not to Wear

Beautiful lingerie and indulging yourself go together. Keeping your lingerie in good condition and properly cared for will extend its use and will help you feel comfortable and sexy. 1. Make sure your lingerie isn't worn, ripped or the wrong size
2. Thong undies under tight fitting skirts and pants will prevent panty lines from showing.
3. Legs look sexy and slimmer in black nylons
4. Light colors make your legs appear heavier
5. A one-piece body suit does a great job of hiding any bulges and makes you look slimmer
6. Always, and this can't be stressed enough, wear a bra that fits correctly.
